Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 21 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Cold, with frost and wintry showers.

This Evening and Tonight:
Gales across northeast Scotland with rain at times, and snow on hills, slowly easing later. Wintry showers affecting northwestern parts. Clear spells elsewhere, and turning frosty.

Friday:
Sunny spells and wintry showers, these mostly in the northwest. Some showery rain, sleet and hill snow perhaps affecting southwest England later. Cold, but less windy than on Thursday.

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Sunny spells and showers, some wintry in Northern and Central areas Saturday and Sunday. Cloudier, some rain or snow in South. Sunny spells and isolated wintry showers Monday. Cold throughout.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.